PODCAST 60 – Senior slides into Probiz Tryline

This week's PROBIZ Tryline is now available for your listening pleasure – the weekly Rugby League podcast produced by Phoenix Multimedia Productions for the Independent.

In this episode of the programme we speak to veteran Super League star Keith Senior, currently out of action for Leeds Rhinos due to an anterior cruciate ligament.

The former Sheffield Eagles Challenge Cup winner reflects on his current employer's latest defeat in the Wembley showpiece and how that could affect the Rhinos for the rest of the campaign as well as giving an update on his rehabilitation.

Senior also passes on his views about Super League Licensing and gives a definitive answer as to his future involvement in the game when his playing career is finally over.

We also hear from the Independent's chief Rugby League writer Dave Hadfield with his views on the Carnegie Challenge Cup final and the upcoming Super League action as well as the latest news from all the Super League clubs.

You can access the podcast in a number of ways. You can download each new episode from iTunes or alternatively through www.probiztryline.net, which also links to the Super League fans forum where you can get involved in discussions about any current hot topics.

Fans are more than welcome to leave their comments about the programme and their team's fortunes, by emailing yoursay@tryline.net
